A banner, given to the local sea scouts as an award for their standing as the best crew in the western states, is one of the exhibits in a display arranged by the scouts in the window of the Odd Fellows building.

The banner was awarded in 1930 at which time the troop was designated the best in Region 12, which includes Oregon, Washington, California, Arizona, Nevada, and Utah. Rating was on the basis of an annual report given by the scouts, and included scores for attendance, number of cruises, and progress made by the individual members.

Campbell Quints Meet Morgan Hill Here Friday Night

A doubleheader basketball game will be played at the local gym Friday night with the Morgan Hill teams; first game begins at 7:30.

The unlimited game should prove very exciting for the fans as both teams stand undefeated. The winner of this game will lead in the valley league. The Campbell 130's are also undefeated for the season. The bouts are regular league games.

The starting lineup for the 130's is, forwards, Joe Condensa, Melvin DeSelle; guards, Julio Condensa, Robert Mattish or Vernon Fellman; center, Hugh Cramer.

The starting lineup for the unlimiteds is, forwards, Vincent Buccellato, Horace Person; guards, Fred Hocking, Joe Ruscigno; center, Francis Pryor.

The Campbell unlimited basketball team went to Monterey last week and played in a tournament. San Mateo, Sequoia, San Jose, Pacific Grove, Monterey, Salinas, Santa Cruz and Campbell took part in the tournament. The Campbell players took third place, being defeated only by San Mateo and Sequoia high schools. San Mateo defeated them by only 3 points.

The Campbell teams defeated the Fremont teams in a recent game by a large score.

American Trust Beats Depression

San Francisco, Jan. 4—That the American Trust company has continued to maintain a liquid condition was disclosed by its statement of condition of Dec. 31, 1932.

Cash and bonds, largely governments, total $106,754,595, against deposits of $200,932,852.

The cash on hand and in the banks increased from $31,592,660 to $39,447,852, since the last call.

Deposits increased from $194,556,613 to $200,932,852 for the same period.

Loans, however, decreased from $111,261,177 to $107,912,308, which indicates that there is little demand for loans at this time in the San Francisco bay area, which is the territory served by the branches of the American Trust company.

Deaconesses, all reelected, were Miss Hancie Naylor, Miss Jessie Lewis, and Mrs. Mary Lanphear. Roy G. Archibald was elected treasurer. Current Comment

The "Buy American" movement was given due consideration at this week's meeting of the local chamber of commerce. A very laudable gesture, surely, and one which will doubtless be taken up by various national organizations. It occurs to us, however, that a carefully thought out, well advertised "Buy In Campbell" program would be more to the point, and really worth the efforts of the sterling group which forms our civic organization.

As long as cheap foreign merchandise is available, the American people will buy it. To beat the game, foreign goods must first be barred from entry into the United States. Patterned, presumably, after the English "Buy British" campaign, the "Buy American" movement will not be nearly so successful. There they are dealing with a highly concentrated population, and one which, frankly, seems to have the good of their country more closely to heart than do we Americans. Even so, the "Buy British" campaign will be successful only so far that it does not upset too thoroughly the budgets of the economical British housewives.

Yes, it will be quite a task, and a lengthy one, to get under way a "Buy Aerican" movement. But a "Buy In Campbell" movement could be started immediately, with considerable tangible value to the entire community. It would be a big job. It would require plenty of thought and a great deal of tact, all of which, we believe, lie within the capabilities of the Campbell chamber of commerce.

The course is clear. To corral more Campbell money than is now being spent here, it may first be necessary to improve local buying conditions. Maybe not. Attitudes of buyers and potential buyers toward Campbell business people would have to be ascertained, and something definite of Campbell's total expenditures would have to be known. It would also be necessary to find out what amount of money, approximately, is being spent in San Jose or elsewhere; what for and why. To achieve this end the chamber of commerce would be obliged to undertake an economic survey embracing all of our citizens. It is the only way they can ever possibly find out how much money is leaving town, and why. And when the aforementioned information is available, something may be done to remedy the cause or causese of out of town buying.

Should such a program be carried out its success would depend to a surprising degree on the manner in which it was publicised. At all stages of the investigation, its findings should be amde known immediately. Nothing else would arouse the interest of the public so thoroughly, or so successfully create a sympathetic attitude towards honest effort, based on the findings of the survey, to give Campbell buyers whatever might be necessary and practicable in the way of a "new deal."

Buy Campell products whenever possible. Buy in Campbell all the time. Forget that there are other towns near by, and learn what makes many isolated prairie villages more prosperous than our own well endowed agricultural community.

The next meeting of the Ada Rebekah Stitching club will be held at the I. O. O. F. hall Thursday afternoon, Jan. 12. Martha Phillips and Emma Main are the hostesses. Members will work on quilts for the needy.

THE FARMERS CORNER

By Ralph H. Taylor

California's newly-drafted agricultural code, combining all of the state's farm laws from 1850 to 1931 in a single, simplified volume, today was projected for early consideration and adoption during the January session of the 1933 state legislature.

Adoption of the modern and compact farm code at this month's meeting, farm leaders pointed out, will clear the decks for action on new agricultural legislation during the second half of the session avoiding confusion and delay in the handling of the farm program.

Similar action will be asked on the new fish and game, and motor vehicle codes, it was announced, so that any new legislation may be drafted as amendments to the new codes.

With the farm code in final shape, embracing agricultural laws which have become models for the entire nation, it was indicated that special committee hearings will be held within the next week or ten days to permit final action by both houses and the Governor before the legislative recess.

The code, for the most part, represents a simplification of existing laws, with the elimination of conflicts, inconsistencies and ambiguities, and with the laws grouped into divisions relating to specific subjects. Hundreds of obsolete and superseded laws will be repealed to make the compact volume clear-cut and easy of understanding.

The code governs the production, protection and marketing of 186 commercial crops grown in California—the greatest number produced by any state in the union. To safeguard the interests of the farming industry, leaders in every branch of the industry have cooperated with the California Code commission in the two-year task of re-drafting and codifying the existing laws.

in addition to the force now regularly employed at the Taste Good bakery, would be required to do the work if that institution was called upon to supply all the bakers' bread consumed by Campbell people.

What two more wage earners, together with their families, would mean to the economic scheme of the community is easily perceived. Every business person and private citizen would benefit directly or indirectly, and the foundation of this business in the bedrock of year 'round activity might well be the foundation of better times in Campbell.

Why, then, do we not all get together and put this little institution "over the hump?" It wouldn't cost us a dime—merely the effort of specifying "Taste Good" when we buy bakery goods. And why shouldn't local grocers supply local bread when their customers indicate no preference? No reason at all. There is just as much profit to be made from Campbell bread as there is from the foreign brands which come in every day by truck. And the local article is, in many people's opinion, superior to any bread or pastry which in this manner finds its way into Campbell stores.

Altogether, then! Forget prejudices, personal likes or dislikes, "famous" brands, and anything else which may have been keeping you from patronizing and boosting the local bakery. Sell, eat, and talk Taste Good bakery goods. Let's bring those two men to town!
